Marana, Giovanni Paolo 1622-1688.

Letters writ by a Turkish spy, who lived five and forty years undiscovered at Paris: giving an impartial account to the Divan at Constantinople, of the most remarkable transactions of Europe; and discovering several intrigues and secrets of the Christian courts (especially of that of France). Continued from the year 1687, to the year 1692. Written originally in Arabic, translated into Italian, from thence into English, and now published with a large historical preface and index to illustrate the whole, by the translator of the first volume ... Marana, Giovanni Paolo 1622-1688.

Letters writ by a Turkish spy ... 1770. (Card 2)

Authorities agree that the first part of the work, published in Paris in 1684, was written by Marana. The remainder has been ascribed to several Englishmen, among them Dr. Robert Mudgey and William Bradshaw. It is probable however that Mudgey simply edited the English translation, made by Bradshaw, of the original Italian manuscript. cf. Gentlemen's magazine, 1840-41; Dict. of nat. biog. v. 6, p. 185; v. 97, p. 360.

Levbourne, William, 1696-1700?

The line of proportion or numbers, commonly called Gunter's line, made easy. By the which may be measured all manner of superficies and solids; as board, glass, pavement, timber, stone, &c. Also, how to perform the same by a line of equal parts, drawn from the centre of a two-foot rule. Whereunto is added, the use of the line of proportion improved: whereby all manner of superficies and solids may both exactly and speedily be measured, without the help of pen or compasses, by inspection, looking only upon the ruler. Leicester's commonwealth.

Leicester's commonwealth fully epitomized: conceived, spoken, and published, with most earnest protestation of all dutiful good-will and affection towards this realm, for whom good only it is made common to many. Contracted in a most brief, exact, and compendious way; with the full sense and whole meaning of the former book, every fragment of sense being interposed. With a pleasant description of the first original of the controversy betwixt the two houses of York and Lancaster. Printed in the year 1641.
